Chapter President

Dawn Holding

Hello Aviation Chapter Members!

Our Chapter ended 2022 with a BANG! Our "ASMC gives back to our Community" was a huge success and with great participation from chapter members. Your responsiveness and commitment to the volunteer activities was tremendous and truly emulated what the American Society of Military Comptrollers stands for.

On December 1st we hosted our annual ASMC holiday party during which we collected gently used decorations that were used for our decorate the St. Vincent DePaul Women and Family shelter event on December 2nd. Eight ASMC members went to the shelter, and decorated the day room and cafeteria areas for three hours. The team also played bingo with the residents for almost two hours. Darryl "Mac" McFadden donated candy and chocolate that were used as prizes for the Bingo games. Thank you Mac! We also walked around and visited with the children in our festive outfits handing out Advent calendars. The children were so excited to see us dressed up, and offered plenty of smiles and hugs. Next year we have big plans on how to make this event even better!

On December 10th seven ASMC members volunteered to work with Blue Star Families, <https://bluestarfam.org/about/>, to help host a holiday dinner for the Ohio Army National Guard's 637th Chemical Company in Beavercreek. Members sorted through 2,000 toys to host a toy room which the children were allowed to pick a bag full of toys to take home. In addition, members served dinner to the families and helped with clean up for the event.

On December 17th a group of twenty members volunteered for Wreaths Across America at the Dayton National Cemetery to remember and honor our veterans. The service began with a ceremony honoring the fallen followed by the laying of 100's of remembrance wreaths on the graves and the act of saying the name of each and every veteran aloud. It was a very moving and worthwhile experience.

The volunteer events of the last quarter generated lots of publicity and excitement about our group. Look for an upcoming article in the Skywriter about ASMC!

In conclusion, I just want to convey my thanks to so many. Thank you so much to the ASMC members and Air Force leaders who are helping to put ASMC back on the map. It is hard to rebuild an organization when something like Covid happens. We appreciate all of the member involvement in our volunteer and social activities. We need everyone's support to keep the momentum going. Thank you to the members of the ASMC Board who have been working tirelessly to set up events and volunteer. We made huge strides in 2022 to be where we are and we have a great vision for the future. And let's not forget to give a huge WELCOME to the new ASMC Aviation Chapter members below!

I have so much optimism looking forward to 2023. We have some big plans and could use our members help. So, buckle up and come join us!

Very Respectfully,

Dawn

CY2022 ASMC Achievement Awards - Nominations

It's that time of year again to nominate outstanding individuals and teams for American Society of Military Comptrollers (ASMC) Aviation Chapter Calendar Year 2022 Achievement Awards! All forms and information can be found on the ASMC website <https://asmconline.org/membership/awards/achievement/>. Please submit all award nominations to sheena.fast@us.af.mil by 26 January 2023. Ms Fast will respond to all submissions to verify receipt, so if you don't hear back within 1-2 business days, please follow-up.

Please encourage your leadership teams to prepare and submit deserving individuals for one or more of the award categories (Accounting, Acquisition/Cost Analysis, Auditing, Budgeting, Comptroller/Deputy Comptroller, Contractor Support, Intern/Trainee, Finance, Resource Management, Small Team, Large Team). Nominees DO NOT need to be ASMC members. All nominees will be reviewed by a panel for our local awards and will also be submitted for the ASMC National Achievement Awards competition.

ASMC MEMBERS -- additional opportunities below!

If you'd like to self-nominate for the Elsie Steffany Memorial Scholarship Award (Award includes CDFM enrollment, textbook, EDFMTC, 3 exams, PDI registration) submit to sheena.fast@us.af.mil by 15 January 2023. Only ONE may be submitted for each chapter, so we will evaluate all nominations received to select the chapter submission. Ms Fast will respond to all submissions to verify receipt, so if you don't hear back within 1-2 business days, please follow-up. The 2023 National Essay Contest - the author may choose to write on one of three current topics. Rules for the essay and submission can be found on the ASMC website. The essays must be submitted to National by 28 February. Members may submit the essay on the website, or may provide to sheena.fast@us.af.mil by 22 February for submission. Ms Fast will respond to all submissions to verify receipt, so if you don't hear back within 1-2 business days, please follow-up.

If there are any questions regarding the awards program, please email sheena.fast@us.af.mil or view more details on the ASMC website <https://asmconline.org/membership/awards/achievement/>.

ASMC Gives Back

In December, eight members volunteered 24 hours to the St. Vincent DePaul Shelter in downtown Dayton by decorating the Women's and Children's area with member-donated holiday decorations and playing bingo with winner gifts also provided by ASMC donations. On December 10th, ASMC assisted Blue Star Families who hosted a holiday party for Ohio Army National Guard 637th in Beavercreek. On December 17th, ASMC layed wreaths at the Dayton VA with Blue Star Families as part of Wreaths Across America. ASMC is proud of our member dedication to serve our community.

There are two upcoming volunteer events scheduled with Crayons to Classroom on February 3rd from 1-3pm, and March 10th from 9-11am. Sign up at: <https://www.signupgenius.com/go/10C094FA8AA2AABF4C16-asmc>

The Digital Optimization of the AFMC International Affairs Portfolio Report

By: Ariel Quesinberry and Wendy Duncan

“There are known knowns. These are things we know we know. There are known unknowns. That is to say, there are things that we know we don’t know. But there are also unknown unknowns. There are things we don’t know we don’t know.” -Donald Rumsfeld

If you work in Foreign Military Sales (FMS) financial management, this quote rings true. The volume of nuances associated with FMS financial execution and reconciliation as well as more systems and responsibilities to accomplish required activities after defense materiel and services have been delivered to the foreign partner contribute heavily to the challenges of FMS financial management. It is common for a financial manager to have access to 10-15 systems in order to accomplish our jobs. Many of these systems and databases do not interface with one another and financial managers spend a great deal of time reconciling data between them. FMS activities utilize 3 systems to manage funds, adding yet another layer of complexity to reconciliation efforts. Further complicating the ability to balance funds execution and reconciliation on a daily basis is the pure volume of lines, or budgets, financial managers are responsible for. Currently AFMC executes 27,325 lines on 2,923 active cases.

Over the past two years, the Air Force Security Assistance and Cooperation (AFSAC) Directorate Financial Management Division, in collaboration with Case Management, led the digital optimization of the $255B FMS portfolio and established the FMS Scorecard report in the Program Management Resource Tool Enterprise Analytics (PMRT-EA) platform in order to promote proper oversight of funds execution and reconciliation. Digital optimization utilizes digital technologies, such as data analytics, and improves existing tools and processes. AFSAC leveraged an existing FMS reporting system, AFSAC Online (AOL), and developed new interfaces within PMRT-EA, combining data from FMS specific systems, DFAS, and the Comprehensive Cost and Requirements (CCaR) system. This new report provides Program Executive Office / Directorate and program office portfolio values, tracks period of performance, and displays execution and reconciliation status. Additionally, the Scorecard provides leaders and analysts the capability to proactively manage funds, identify adverse financial conditions, and ensure timely customer billing of 2.9k FMS cases across the AFMC enterprise.

Why is this a game-changer? Prior to the FMS Scorecard, organizations resorted to manual methods to extract data from each of the unique FMS systems at varying levels to combine into labor intensive reports. Due to the manual processes, financial managers were challenged with identifying system discrepancies, over-executed lines, or stagnant expired lines. Now with a click of a button, anyone managing FMS can obtain tailored reports with up-to-date portfolio values, while also reviewing the FMS Scorecard to identify areas of concern and take immediate action. The report closes the gap on the known unknowns and unknown unknowns by provoking inquiries and action when data is highlighted red. Additionally, analytic features have been incorporated into the report to proactively manage FMS case lines to assist in determining additional funding requirements or period of performance extensions are necessary, reducing the chances of work stoppage or delay in requirements execution.

AFSAC was able to identify the root cause of some unknown unknowns associated with various Security Cooperation fund types. Standardization is a critical element of data analytics. The FMS Scorecard reporting capabilities rely on data fields being used properly (naming conventions and proper elements) and fields not being left blank (if it is supposed to have an element). Whether you are building a budget in CCaR or preparing a funding document in any system, data fields matter. Lack of standardization will inhibit the advancement of reporting capabilities and in essence, the fidelity of financial execution and reconciliation. As the FM field digitally optimizes with various data analytic platforms, please take a moment to consider how your current actions contribute to the advancement of financial reporting.

Many thanks to AFLCMC/GB PMRT Program Management Office for supporting these efforts.

Malvertising

A newer way malicious users can trick you into visiting their sites is called Malvertising. This is a practice where the malicious user's setup a site then buys advertisements, which are used to trick us into clicking based on them of their site. Some sites may be designed to steal credentials while pretending to be a financial site or they may be used to distribute malware while pretending to be the site for a popular application or tool. The advertisements they purchase are the same advertisements you will see at the top of a list of search results. Since their advertisement was legitimately bought, it will appear in your search results based on your browsing data that is regularly collected and sold (i.e., ads for new or discounted tires start showing up after you searched for the "best winter tires in 2022"). While these ads will eventually be removed when discovered, they may not be detected as quickly since they are being distributed through legitimate means. The safest practice you can have to avoid this, and other attacks, is to never click on ads or links from a non-trusted or unsolicited source. This article by the FBI provides some additional information on Malvertising.

Sending Spam Calls to Voicemail

Spam calls, or robocalls, are irritating, dangerous, and persistent. One of the best ways to stay safe with respect to these calls is to simply ignore them. No matter your reasons, simply answering one of these calls can cause your number to be flagged as active resulting in more calls. Setting your phone to ignore or block these calls may be useful for some people. This article provides some basic instructions on how to do this with Android and iPhone devices.

Managing the Windows Taskbar

The Windows Taskbar can be customized in a few different ways. Toolbars, Search, Cortana, and News and Interests are some of the options. Each of the items described here can be accessed from the Taskbar popup options. Right-clicking on the Hidden Icons, the "v" button in the lower-right corner of the screen, is the easiest way to access the Taskbar options. Both toolbars can be useful depending on the way you use your computer.

First, the Taskbar has some toolbars that can be enabled. The "Toolbars" option holds two specific toolbars by default that can be valuable for some users. When you select a tool bar, it is added to the Taskbar to the left of the System Tray where the clock and WIFI icons can be found.

Address – This is a box where you can input a web address, your default internet browser will open and navigate to the website, or a file path, Windows Explorer will open the specified folder. Enabling this toolbar can provide quick access to specific links or file addresses.

Desktop – This will put a dropdown list of all the files and folders on your desktop on the Taskbar. Enabling this toolbar can supply quick access to your primary file locations (e.g., user files, OneDrive, and This PC) as well as the content on your Desktop.

Second, the News and Interests feature will display a small newspaper icon in the lower-right corner of the screen on the Taskbar. This feature is intended to enable users to quickly access news, weather, traffic, etc. While this feature may be convenient for some, it could be troublesome when your computer is running slow or a distraction if the user does not want the feature enabled. News and Interests options include the ability to toggle the icon and text, turn the feature off, or disable its activation when hovering to prevent accidental opening. More details can be found in this article.

Third, the Search feature provides the options to show a search box or search icon to the right of the Start Menu button in the lower-left corner of the screen.

Finally, the Cortana, Task View, People, Windows Ink, and touch keyboard buttons can be added to the taskbar. Like the toolbars, the usefulness of these buttons is dependent on the way you use your computer. The detailed options for the Taskbar can be accessed when you select the "Taskbar settings" choice.

Professional Development Institute (PDI) 2023

ASMC is pleased to officially announce its 2023 Professional Development Institute (PDI)! Next year's premier defense financial management event will be held in St. Louis, Missouri, May 29 – June 2.

Mark your calendar. Alert the team. Plan ahead. You won't want to miss this! In addition to plans underway for an education-packed PDI, 2023 also marks the 75th anniversary of ASMC – expect extra celebration as we gather together as a community of defense financial managers.

The theme for PDI 2023 is “Meet Us at the Gateway: The Future of Defense Financial Management”. If you didn't know already the city of St. Louis is known as the gateway to the west. For us, we see it as the gateway to all that is to come in our industry. From data security to digital transformation and PPBE reform – change is upon us as financial management professionals. That's why PDI is an essential part of your agenda for the coming calendar year.

Whether you've been to PDI countless times, or this would be your very first – we hope you'll meet us in St. Louis! We cannot wait to see you at PDI 2023!

Learn More & Watch the Video [<https://asmconline.org/pd/pdi>] *Early bird pricing ends April 30, 2023. More details will be posted to the ASMC website in 2023. Still got questions? Please email us at Education@asmconline.org.

National ASMC Scholarship Awards

Each year, ASMC awards more than $35,000 in scholarships and grants to high school seniors, college students and ASMC members to provide financial assistance so that they may accomplish their educational goals related to financial management.

ASMC awards nine High School Scholarships, eleven continuing education grants, and the Elsie Steffany Memorial Scholarship for CDFM. All applicants must submit nominations through your local chapter.

This is a great opportunity that many do not take advantage of. If you are currently seeking education or know a high school student preparing for college, this is for you! For more information on scholarships and to apply, go to <https://asmconline.org/membership/awards/scholarship/>.
